

A method of transferring a pattern onto a substrate during IC fabrication is disclosed. The substrate is coated with a photosensitive layer having compounds dissolved in a solvent. Roughness on the sidewalls of the photosensitive layer is eliminated or reduced by evaporating the solvent without using elevated temperatures.

Figures